

The Medical Honors Pathway is an integrated track that includes your undergraduate study at Lander College for Women and four years of medical school at New York Medical College, in Valhalla, NY, contingent upon the completion of specific academic benchmarks. Please see the Medical Honors Pathway brochure for further details.

Deadlines:

LCW Honors Program (HP) Early Deadline: Wednesday, November 1, 2023 Medical Honors Program (MHP) Deadline: Thursday, December 21, 2023

Students who are applying to the MHP must apply to the Honors Program by the Early Deadline and will be asked to accept the HP Admissions offer within one week after they have been notified about their MHP admissions decision.

Medical Honors Pathway Application

(after applying to the Lander College for Women Honors Program)

Complete the following application form and submit along with:

- two letters of recommendation attesting to the maturity and qualifications of the applicant for the Medical Honors Pathway, including the applicant's capability in understanding and applying scientific information. At least one recommendation letter must be written by a physician or by the head of a research lab (with Ph.D. credentials) who supervised your clinical or research experience. (If you have already submitted these letters to the College or to the Honors Program, it is not necessary to submit other letters for the Medical Honors Pathway.)
- an essay not to exceed 5,300 characters on why the applicant is interested in a career in medicine and enrollment in the Medical Honors Pathway. Note: If one of your Honors Program essays focused on your clinical or research-related experiences, you may use that essay for both the Honors Program and Medical Honors Pathway applications. Please submit your essay directly to the LCW Admissions Office (Sarah.Klugmann@touro.edu).
